A report expressing the opinion that the bodies of Walt Daniel and Fletcher Richards were subjected to some specially constructed device designed for inflicting punishment. He says the arms and legs of the victims were apparently chopped off. He testifies their heads were crushed by forces "coming from different directions as in a vise." OVER TWICE AS MANY BIRTHS
AS DEATHS HERE LAST YEAR

The grim reaper was defeated by the stock by a score of more than two to one in Middlesboro and vicinity during 1922 according to R. P. Hutcheson, vital statistician. The records show 224 births and 105 deaths.

Mr. Hutcheson says he is practically certain that there have been at least 200 births and 75 deaths which have not been reported. Some of the physicians in the territory over which he has jurisdiction do not seem to realize the importance of making prompt reports of the births and deaths and for this reason complete statistics are impossible. There are also many cases, especially in the mountain districts, where births are unattended by a physician and thus no report is made.

Mr. Hutcheson says that he will send by his report to the state bureau of vital statistics about January 20 this year. It is due on the 10th but he is giving physicians the extra time to turn in any reports that may have been neglected.

HERE DIES IN DENISON TEX.

Mrs. Will McWilliams has received word that her uncle, Nute Lane of Denison, Texas, died recently of heart failure. Mr. Lane was well known here and at Pineville as he and his brother, J. D. The latter building was the first real barber shop in Middlesboro and was owned by Mr. Lane's son-in-law, Mose White.

Mr. Lane was 71 years old and still active at his trade. He leaves five children: O. R. Lane of Denison, Tex., H. F. W. L. MAPOTHEP
L & N PRESIDENT,
HERE YESTERDAY

Says L and N Equipment in Best Condition—Declares Double Track To Pineville Will Be Continued
To Harlan

INVESTIGATE NEW BRANCH
LINE TO BLACK MOUNTAIN

W. B. Mapother, president of the L. and N. Railroad, was in Middlesboro last night, coming by here on his way back to Louisville from Black Mountain where he had been investigating the Black Mountain railroad. Mr. Mapother visited his friend G. F. Schenck at the Hotel Cumberland here, and complimented this new hotel very highly.

In talking to Division Superintendent O. B. Hollingsworth of the L. and N.'s general condition now, Mr. Mapother spoke very optimistically. He said that the road had purchased seventy new engines during the past year, and that never in the history of the L. and N. had the equipment been in such good shape. The only trouble that the road has, he said, is that so large a per cent of its cars go to other lines and the company can not control its equipment.

Mr. Mapother also said that, as soon as the sixteen and a half miles of double track which the L. and N. is now building to Pineville is completed, the road would be in a position to continue the double track on to Harlan. However, Mr. Hollingsworth says that when the Pineville double track is completed the L. and N. will have adequate trackage to handle the present business of Harlan County and to serve satisfactorily all of the district of the Cumberland Valley Division.

The Black Mountain line which Mr. Mapother came down to investigate is a branch line nine miles long, built by the North Jellico Coal Co. about three years ago. It runs to Blackmount, near Pender on the Clinch line. The road runs to the two big mines of the North Jellico Company extending over 12,000 acres of coal property, and also serves several other big mines. The line was first built by a company which did not entirely complete the project. The North Jellico Company bought it and remodeled it into a splendid line.

OFFICER PRAISES
HEALTH WORK

Dr. Hancock Pleased With Dr. Hayes'
Work—To Continue Clinics
During 1923

PINEVILLE, Jan. 5.—Dr. Jeffra Hancock of Louisville, director of bureau of venereal diseases of the State Board of Health, in co-operation with United States Public Health Service, is in Pineville this week looking after the interests of the clinics in Pineville and Middlesboro.

Dr. Hancock expresses himself as being greatly pleased with the work that Dr. Hayes has done in Middlesboro and Pineville during the past few months. The work has been so conducted as, apparently to meet with the approval of all the people who have taken an interest in the public health affairs in Bell County.

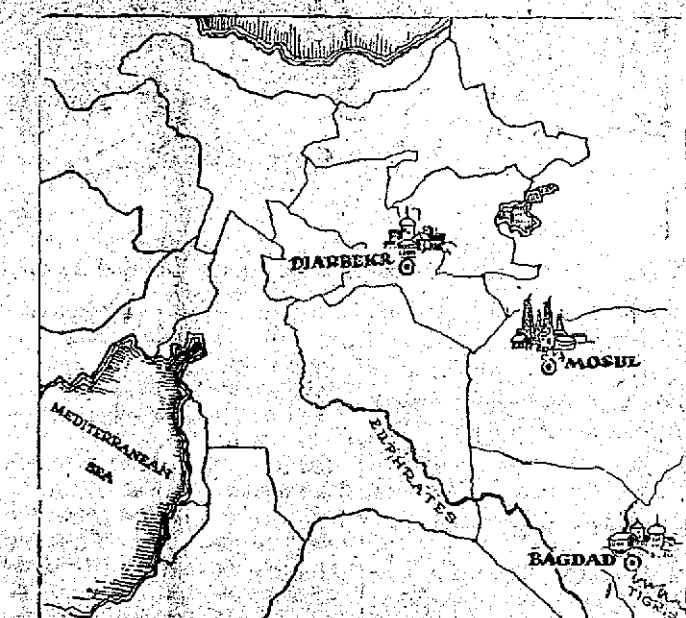

Dr. Hancock says that the officials of Bell County are uniform in their opinion that the work should be continued during 1923. Dr. Hayes has worked in close co-operation with the Associated Charities and Welfare League here which organizations have helped in making the work so effective.

MISS MARX HAS SPLENDID REPORT

Red Cross Field Supervisor, Visits
Here, Praises Work Which
Health Nurse Has done

Twelve thousand visits of an average of approximately 4000 per year have been made by Miss Wilhelmine Marx, Red Cross nurse, during the two years and ten months that she has been in charge of the monthly meetings of the Middlesboro Chapter, American Red Cross Thursday evening.

Edgar P. Davis, field supervisor for the Red Cross in Kentucky, was present and gave a short talk on the peace program which the institution is trying to carry out.

As the committee on the drive had not yet made their complete report, a statement as to the financial status of the organization was impossible.

The question of whether or not to take up the work of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company was discussed, in view of the fact that Miss Marx already has more work than she can do, it was decided to defer the matter.

Mr. Davis, who has examined all the reports of the nurse, was highly pleased with her work. The average public health nurse who does no school work at all is supposed to make only about 2000 visits per year.

It was also found that on her record files there were the names of 50 ex-service men about whom she has been in constant correspondence with the government. This work was not done by Miss Marx during the time allotted by the national organization, namely hours from 9 to 5. During 1921 alone her over-time service amounted to nearly four months.

The American Red Cross stands for service of the highest type, be it school, local, social or civil relief work. The public health nurse of the organization must be qualified to render aid these different classes of service.

Postal Gains Double In 10 Years

Postal gains were doubled during the past decade according to the post-office records. For the year just ending they were $27,300. Revenue from this source has increased approximately $10,000 during the past four years. All of which goes to show that Middlesboro is growing rapidly from year to year.

"Chicago," says some talker, "will reach fifty million." Yes, and it might become a suburb of Los Angeles.

Incomplete figures indicate that the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals in December netted about $150, according to Miss Wilhelmine Marx, Red Cross nurse. Some of the proceeds of the sale have not been turned over to her yet, but she estimates the aggregate amount at this figure.

It was decidedly the most successful year in regard to the sale of Red Cross seals that the city has ever had, declared Miss Marx. Two years ago it was more than four times the amount of last year.

BOSWORTH TRAIL
ALMOST ASSURED

Cuts Off 35 Miles On Way To Lexington
—Senator Bosworth Leaves
For Road Meeting

Senator J. F. Bosworth left today to attend a meeting in Richmond to night and one in Frankfort Monday of boosters of the Bosworth Trail, the direct route from Lexington to Cumberland Gap. Delegates to the meeting will be road enthusiasts from towns along the proposed route of the road.

The trail, which is now almost a certainty, cuts 35 miles between here and Lexington making the distance over land about 120 miles. The road starts at Lexington going through Richmond, McKee, Manchester, Red Bird, Pineville and Middlesboro. There is now no road at all through McKee between Richmond and Manchester.

The following dispatch from Richmond shows that the trail is practically assured:

"Completion of the Bosworth Trail from Lexington through Madison, Jackson, Clay counties and on to Bell county, was assured when the Madison fiscal court voted to appropriate its part of the state aid for a road from Richmond to the Jackson county line. 'Jackson county has already voted $250,000 in bonds for its road.'"

A THOUGHT

And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love.—I Corinthians 13:13.

The Bible tells us what Christian loves are, but it is in the struggle of life that we are to find them.—Henry Ward Beecher.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY

Nine out of ten citizens, if asked which building in the city contains the most wealth would point without hesitancy to one of the bank buildings. But is this true?

Within the walls of the Carnegie Library there are treasures of boundless wealth. They are not kept behind massive metal doors secured by intricate locks. They are of easy access to any one who can find time—and who can not?—to enjoy them. The literary gems of the ages ranging from the time Ptolemy Hepet carved the first literary composition in stone to today's newspapers can be had for the asking.

Yet the public is not making good use of the reading room tonight. Instead of the two or three which are now usually seen there of evenings, every seat should be occupied. The city can ill afford the evening upkeep of the place unless it should be more liberally patronized in the future.

The institution has already been of great value to a number of individuals. Numbers there are who possess a partially developed taste for literature or for information that will help them in their daily work who have found the library a great personal aid. The librarian tells of three young men living about five miles out in the country who walk into town at every opportunity for books.

Another notable instance of the value of the library's mission in the city is of a family of adult children who could scarcely read when they moved here from out in the mountains. But they did in their souls a love for literature and the thirst for mental wealth. Beginning with the juvenile stories they were soon reading and enjoying the popular novels and now any tome that does not bear the name of Dickens, Shakespeare or some writer of equal merit is beneath their notice.

The father of the household became interested, was persuaded to take out a card and now he is also making a pleasurable ascent of the classic ladder.

Our public library is equal to any found in any city of ordinary size. Its three thousand volumes have been selected with great care and no matter what mood the reader might be in he is always sure to find something to his taste.

YOUR MASK

All criminals lie, but rare is the man who can stick to a lie, says Michael Hughes, Chicago's detective chief. "We find a liar will tell a different version of the same story to almost everyone. So we lead a suspect into telling lies, then we check him up, and finally in his mental confusion the truth comes out."

This bit of criminal psychology is based on the principle of multiple personality. In other words, that we present a separate and distinct and entirely different personality to each person we meet.

Take your own case. In the presence of your mother you act a certain way, display a certain attitude. This is your personality, as mother sees it. To another person, you are entirely different in actions and attitude. Naturally, no two people see us in exactly the same light.

And, naturally, we often disagree and argue about the merits or defects of mutual acquaintances. You may consider an acquaintance a k. Your friend may consider him a g. Neither of you can understand the other's attitude.

We all know people who are shrews in public, but "mighty sweet" to his mother, and that atones for a lot. Another familiar expression: "Don't mind him. He's a good fellow when he's sober." Liquor brings out hidden personalities.

Carry this analysis to its logical conclusion and every one has a distinct and different personality for every person with whom he ever comes in contact. It is humanly impossible to treat two people in exactly the same way—to exhibit the same personality to both.

Some philosopher said something about us entering this world alone and leaving it alone. To a large degree, we also go through life alone.

No matter how intimate we may become with friends, mother, father, wife or husband, there is always something we keep to ourselves. This hidden personality, safely masked, is the Real Self.

And none of us ever fully understands our real self. We think we do. Then comes a time when we think things over in a bewildered sort of way and are unable to understand certain of our actions.

The greatest mystery, the most interesting thing in the universe is human personality. Our real selves, under analysis, are unknown almost to the point of being terrible.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Ready! Begin!" said the man and Jackie gave Caesar a bang on the nose.

Little Jackie Jumping Mouse was snoring. He still had one the little red jacket the Brownies had given him and over him were the warm covers that Nancy and Nick had tucked around him when they went with Dusty Coat the dwarf sandman, to make Jackie comfortable for the winter.

His house was way under the ground in a nice warm place where Jack Frost couldn't reach him.

Jackie Mouse snored again and turned over. He was dreaming. He was dreaming that he was a kangaroo in a circus and he was very happy.

Suddenly a little trap door under his bed sprang open and the little mouse fell through it like a ripe plum—or more like a ball of yarn out of a sewing basket, his tail trailing after him like a long raveling.

He whizzed around, and around, all the time sliding downward through a place like a coal chute, and after a while he landed on something hard but he wasn't hurt a bit and springing up like a bed spring.

Then he saw where he was. In the middle of big circus tent just as he had dreamed with hundreds of people sitting around in long rows staring at him!

"Oh, horrors!" thought Jackie. "They'll be setting the cat on me now. I'll have to run!"

But just then a man in a blue velvet suit came up and held out his hand. "How do you do, Mr. Kangaroo!" he said. "We are glad you have come and hope you have had a pleasant journey. Here are the boxing gloves, and here is the person you are to fight."

Jackie looked down at himself in amazement. Lo and behold, he had grown enormously. He was indeed a kangaroo! Then he looked at his enemy and behold it was Caesar the Cat, thinking his eyes fearfully.

"Ready! Begin!" said the man and Jackie gave Caesar a bang on the nose that sent him sprawling.

"Score one for Dreamland," said the man. And everybody clapped.

Jackie was happier than ever he had been in his life.

He gave Caesar a good walloping just as he had always wished to do.

"Dreamland is a fine place," thought he.

LAW AND ORDER ENFORCEMENT

Editor Daily News. As a citizen and taxpayer of the city of Middleboro, I wish to state that law enforcement has been better in this city for the past few months than it ever has been and I believe that the city government under the council has been better than it ever has been since I have been in this city.

In the first place, we have a high type of a gentleman for mayor and then twelve men chosen from every part of the city who are gentlemen and are looking after every part of the city as best they can. I know the taxes seemed higher, but, as the city was in debt, it took this to get every thing out of the hole, and I as a man can see that over all have to be taxed a little bit higher till we can get out of debt. I assure you and carry one that I would much rather pay higher and get out of debt than always to be behind and have our city in debt.

I believe the officers chosen by the mayor and council to keep order in town never could have been better. Houston Ball as the chief knows all about the criminals in the city. "As he has been an officer here for a number of years. I know that he will and has been doing his whole duty and I know that the city at present is quieter and more peaceful than it ever has been.

Charley Yeary is a good officer, as he is acquainted with most every one in the city. He has been an officer for a number of years and I know the council did not make any mistake in selecting him.

Capt. A. D. DeBusk has done service in France and acquitted himself with honor over there while in charge of an American company, and I know he is doing his duty as an officer for the city of Middleboro. Here's hoping that he will do his whole duty while on duty in the city.

Charley White is another officer of this city who has had a lot of experience. I know he is a good officer and a good man and I am sure he is doing his whole duty and I commend him for his good work.

Then there is Frank Crabtree who is a good man and seems to be doing his whole duty as an officer and I believe there was no mistake in appointing them.

Now I want to commend the council and citizens of Middleboro for having employed this set of officers and I want to congratulate these men for such a quiet town during the holidays. To my knowing no city could have been better.

With best wishes for the city of Middleboro, its government and officers. I am ever their friend.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

WHY SHOULDN'T THEY?

By Berton Braley

I don't know a thing about higher finance,
Put this much I'm ready to say:
Sure Germany's troops made a waste out of France.

It's Germany's cash that should pay.
Yet out of EIGHT billions expended so far,
Repairing the harm that was done,
The Germans have paid for the troops they made
Just ONE!

"Can Germany pay?" Let economists ask—
I'm sure that I cannot decide.

To pay is, of course, a most difficult task,
But—how hard has Germany tried?

She's whined and she's whimpered,
she's wheeled and dodged,
She's raised a big hulkaballoo,
But as to that debt, well, she hasn't as yet.

Come through.

Her fields were not wasted, her homes
are intact,
So, though I don't savvy finance,
I'm free to confess I can't see for a fact,

Why she should pay far less than France!

Economists say that the Germans can't pay,
And prove it with figures, but I would like to see Fritz quit his cry-baby fits

And try!

If ignorance were bliss there would be more happy people.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Kate WARD, her husband, DAN WARD, dead, returned to live with her widower father, JUSTIN PARSONS, then came CHINATOWN ALICE, asserting that Dan was the father of her child, DOROTHY. Then followed news that Dorothy was ill. Kate visited Alice at the laundry of SING DOY, with whom the latter lived, and was directed to a hospital whither Alice said the child had been sent, but on going there was assured there was no such patient. Back at home, Kate sat talking in the evening with her father when their dog,

MONK, showed signs that he wanted them to follow him.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Monk led off through a thicket, across an open stretch, toward the road which paralleled the Walush River. It was a road much shaded by trees, dark, and with high embankments on either side.

Kate and Justin followed at an easy gait.

As they moved along they talked of Alice, of Dorothy, of the trickery connected with the child's illness, it indeed if she were ill at all, and of visitations of the voice in the night.

Monk turned occasionally as he trotted along to make sure that the two people behind him were coming. At length the dog disappeared in a gully which skirted a small hill and extended quite to the road. He began a slow baying.

"He's found something!" Justin quickened his pace as he spoke.

Kate and Justin broke into a run, stumbling at a sudden rise in the ground and increasing their speed automatically on a slope. When they reached the top of the gully they stopped, tried to peer into the darkness. They had brought no light.

The natural shadows of evening were deepened by the thick growth on the sides of the little valley. They had only the voice of the dog to direct them.

"Let me go down phone—you wait here!" Justin was seeking a foothold in the slanting ground.

"No!" Kate's tone was firm. "I'll go. If anything is wrong you will need me anyway."

"Then give me your hand and let me guide you—I know these hills better than you do." Justin took his daughter's hand and went before her.

Suddenly Monk's baying silenced, a sound of cackling twigs came from the darkness below. Kate's hand, in Justin's clenched. The two stood still, waiting.

The cackling sound was coming toward them.

Something brushed Kate's skirt. "Monk!" she cried. The dog had returned, but headed immediately tail straight, head erect, he stalked toward the downward slope again. Kate kept to hand on his collar. Occasionally when her feet were uncertain, she bore heavily on the dog. At such times he stiffened his neck and back, giving her better support. His steps were sure.

At length the trip reached the flat ground.

Kate released Monk, who walked just a little ahead for a short distance and then stopped with a low whine.

Kate and Justin could hardly make out the outlines of his body, his head hanging low. They heard the soft tapping of his tongue against another surface.

Cautiously they approached.

Justin, his hand on the dog's head, followed the line of the animal's nose and then touched something cold and damp. His fingers traced the surface—they had touched and discovered the outline of a human face.

PATRONIZE THE STORES THAT ADVERTISE

Why One Advertising Appropriation Was Increased

Two partners were debating their advertising policy—planning the campaign for the next six months.

There is a retail store which spent in one year $12,000 on its advertising which was 5 per cent of their yearly volume, a fair expenditure in their line of business.

In growth of sales they could easily point out the home-coming of the $12,000 with a fair and reasonable profit in its train. For these two partners that expenditure was a profitable short-term investment.

One of the partners spoke up:

"John," he said, "we have a cash profit in the bank from that $12,000, but we have a greater intangible profit by far—it is piled up for us in the minds of every man and woman in the city.

"It is reflected in the attitude of our bankers.

"It is present in the minds of the manufacturers who sell us.

"It is working on the minds and purses of every one of our customers.

"Why," he continued, "this business because of the advertising we have done, is worth $12,000 more than it was before we began."

The two partners increased their appropriation, modestly, it is true. That was five years ago. Today, for it is in a large city, their appropriation is eight times their original amount. Their standing with bankers, manufacturers and customers is A-1. Their business has grown and grown in a healthy way. And still as one of them put it—

"In the last five years advertising has made money for us. Every cent we've spent has come back to us, and brought another with it. But, our real profit—our big profit from our advertising is banked in the minds of the people. Ours is the best known business of its kind in town. And that is worth a lot of money to us."

TOO MANY COAL MINES IN DISTRICT

Fact Finding Committee Will Recommend Closing Some Twinblazer Says

KNOXVILLE Jan. 3.—Too many mines!

This will be the verdict of the national coal fact finding committee which will report to President Harding on January 15 the "why" of the shortage in the nation's coal pile, according to William Turnblazer, president of district 19, United Mine Workers of America.

There was an enormous speculation in coal during the world war. Mr. Turnblazer said, due to the war-time demand. Many, with the belief that they would get rich quick flocked to the coal fields and hundreds of new mines were opened. When the war ended the new operators continue to run the mines rather than sell them at a loss. Then followed the strike of the miners and the rail strike, both of which caused enforced inactivity for a time. The rail strike is still having its evil effects in the car shortage. Because there are so few cars, all of the mines cannot be supplied, they can only be given a very limited number of cars. So far, none of the mines have been advised to close, although they are receiving but about a two day's supply a week. It is probable though that the fact finding committee will ask that some limit be placed on the number of mines in a given territory allowed to operate.

Only One Railroad Track

Leading into the Harlan Mines, which are perhaps the heaviest producing mines in Eastern Kentucky, there is but one railroad track which must carry all outgoing and incoming traffic. As both empties and loaded cars must pass over the same track there is such congestion that hardly half the service necessary can be given. It is the same way in many of the mines of Tennessee and nearby states. This is another complaint which may be made by the committee as to the cause of the low production. Miners in the fields of Eastern Kentucky and in some of the fields in Tennessee have been suffering intensely during the first part of the year from the effects of inactivity lasting over a period of about two years and depleted credit as a cause of this have reduced the miners to the last extremity. Money and some of the necessities have been sent into the fields by relatives of the miners engaged in other work, while a few have left the mines to seek other employment.

Miners Too Poor To Move

In explaining the suffering of the miners, E. L. Reed, secretary of the United Mine Workers says that the miners own their own homes in the vicinity of the mines and that there is little agricultural region close to the mines. Many of them also have stayed at the mines because they do not have enough money to pay transportation to other places. Except in cases of strikes, the United Mine Workers of America does not provide for the care of the miners and it is said they have not made application to coal charities.

Recommendations will probably be made by the fact finding committee that temporary relief be extended by the government to the miners until provision is made for the mines to operate full time.

Air Castles

(Christian Herald)
Set up a lofty goal,
Build a castle for your soul.

Take ere vision groweth cold,
Silver, wood and purest gold,
Beneath room place jewels rare,
Nothing gross may enter there.

House of joy and home of song,
Place of prayer to make me strong;
If for temple this be fit,
Put foundation under it!

Castles in the air these wife,
Outreach for the flaming star;
Steadfast stand they in the blue,
Help to make my dreams come true.

To a star your wagon tie,
Let your soul take wings and fly;
But such flights are little worth
Save the landing place on earth.

GOOD MANNERS

On the street, a man never takes the arm of a woman he is escorting. He offers his own if he feels that the woman needs his protection.

Nor, in the daytime, does a woman take her escort's arm unless she is aged, infirm, or again, in the event of some especial need for protection.

In the evening the woman properly accepts her escort's support, though she only rests the palm of her hand lightly with his elbow, without limiting her arm through his.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthio-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation. Menthio-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Menthio-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

Black-Draught Recommended by an Arkansas Farmer Who Has Used It, When Needed, for 25 Years.

Hatfield, Ark.—Mr. G. W. Parsons, a well-known farmer on Route 1, this place, says: "I keep Black-Draught in my home all the time. It is the best all-around medicine I have ever found for the liver and for constipation. We began using it 25 or more years ago and have used it whenever needed since. I have never found any other medicine as good for constipation, and that was what I suffered with till I began using Black-Draught. Black-Draught corrected this condition, and now we use it for the liver and for indigestion—a tight and sluggish feeling after meals, for bad taste in the mouth and sour stomach.

Eating too much meat may clog
the Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any drug store, pour them into a glass tumbler, add lemon juice, and take the water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to those "clogged kidneys" and stimulates them to normal activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says his salts lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

CLING TO THE BIBLE
As you journey through life, to the grave you pursue, There's one thing in earnest I wish you to do; O listen, my boy, while I say this to you, Oh, cling to the Bible my boy.

You may meet with misfortune, and sorrows and tears, you may battle against Satan for years; Be a Christian, press on, do not have any fears, But cling to the Bible my boy.

Every time that you read it, you'll find something new; Of Jesus who died on the cross to save you; To the Lord, to yourself, to Heaven be true, Oh, cling to the Bible, my boy.

Put your faith in your God, and you will be strong, Keep your eye on the cross and you'll never go wrong; Sing the sweet songs of praise as you journey along, And cling to the Bible my boy.

This the anchor of hope and the lamp that gives light, This the star that will shine through your life's darkest night. If you follow its guidance you'll always be right, Oh, cling to the Bible, my boy.

EVANGELIST COMES HERE NEXT WEEK

Rev. Trigg Thomas, in Pineville Now, Fires Citizens There With Religious Enthusiasm

The Rev. Trigg A. Thomas, who is now conducting evangelistic services at the Presbyterian Church in Pineville, will be in Middlesboro January 15 to begin a series of services here lasting two weeks. The Rev. Thomas is one of the most forceful speakers in the south and he is meeting with great success. The following story of his work is from the Pineville Sun: "Six services a day have had a place on the daily program of the Rev. Trigg A. O. Thomas in his evangelistic campaign for the first half of the week, and a daily program equally as strenuous is planned for the remaining ten days of the local campaign, he and the Rev. C. L. Nisbet, pastor of the Presbyterian church announced Thursday.
